BEAUTY ORGANIC ALOE VERA

As Seen In:

Marlene Wallach, known as the Queen of Faces explains "In the course of two decades as partners with Wilhelmina Models, hundreds of models would come to me for product suggestions saying that nothing was helping their skin. The answer was - to develop products that I could certify to be effective! I became passionate about clean beauty and cutting-edge formulations which resulted in effective products and Gleem Beauty".

Marlene Wallach is a tenured Conscious Beauty Advocate.

From her early days at Wilhelmina Models to promoting conscious beauty to the new generation of esthetic professionals, she is devoted to the mission of advocating for awareness, and a conscious effort to use products with ingredients that are not shown or suspected to harm human health or the planet.

Gleem Beauty uses Organic Clinical Grade ADAPTIVE Aloe Vera

Adaptive by definition: The ability to change in order to fit or work better for some purpose.

Adaptive Aloe Vera changes to amend the needs of your skin

The way our skin adapts is multigenerational. Be it hormones, the environment or stress, Aloe Vera is also adaptive, supplying your skin with whatever it needs. It repairs skin damage (burns, scars, wounds, acne), moisturizes and hydrates your skin, as well as promotes skin firmness. It also helps rebuild collagen (more of it and faster) and can meet the needs of whatever skin issue there is to heal. This is the reason Gleem Beauty uses organic clinical grade adaptive Aloe Vera as the base ingredient in all our products.

Support for the Breast Cancer Community

As a Breast Cancer Warrior and someone who had breast cancer at age 40, I made sure that support for women with breast cancer was built into the Gleem™ Beauty business model from the start. Our focus at Gleem Beauty is to help the “individual woman” from the time of detection to when she is set to re-enter the workplace after her breast cancer treatment.

"I am confident that Gleem Beauty's support of women with breast cancer makes a difference one woman at a time."
